

Yacht clubs offering reciprocal privileges to CFSA members for the year 2009, are described below in three sections. These descriptions are now updated with yacht club websites and full moorage information, however, if you do not find the information you want in these pages, please check each club's website - you may find it there. If you discover changes to a yacht club's procedures, or wish to make any comments or suggestions regarding reciprocal privileges, please let us know at majendie36@shaw.ca. All yacht clubs require members to fly their burgees and carry an up-to-date membership card. Use on-board holding tanks or Clubhouse toilets at all times and please keep your pets on a leash (be sure to clean up all "accidents").

The first section consists of BC yacht clubs. The second section consists of US yacht clubs in the San Juan Islands and Puget Sound areas. The third section consists of all other yacht clubs with which we have reciprocal arrangements.

A CFSA Annual is slated for production this year, but if you are planning a boating adventure and wish to take advantage of reciprocal moorage and have not received your Annual, print this listing and take it with you. It is available in PDF format. We wish you fair winds and following seas in your travels.

SECTION A - BC Yacht Clubs

Airport Yacht Club – Located in Vancouver Marina on the north side of the Middle Arm Bridge, therefore the bridge does not need to open. Club House is a floating facility located on the East side of the river. One night's moorage with free power to a maximum vessel length of 45 feet. Dock availability is in the absence of members' boats and a call at least one week in advance will ensure space is available.
